Deakin practices in all aspects of intellectual property law, with an emphasis on patent and trademark prosecution and related disputes. Deakin has significant experience with patent post-grant proceedings and has represented both patent owners and patent challengers in inter partes reviews and other reexamination proceedings. He also regularly advises clients on trademark enforcement and defense matters, including infringement disputes and strategies for protecting and enforcing trademark rights.

Deakin represents a broad range of clients and industries, including mechanical and electromechanical devices, medical devices and related delivery systems, laboratory and diagnostic equipment, athletic equipment and apparel, aircraft and aviation systems, processes and manufacturing equipment, and consumer products. Before law school, he worked in Washington, D.C. as an engineer at a firm that provided engineering services involving the design of telecommunications networks and related FCC compliance requirements.
